What is your approach to discretionary fund management?

Central to our investment philosophy is our belief that clients are particularly sensitive to losses rather than necessarily being averse to taking risks. This leads us to define each client's risk budget as the probability of loss over various time periods and the potential magnitude of that loss should it occur.

We also believe investing in funds managed by external managers provides the best risk adjusted returns for our clients.

Our investment philosophy has been developed by adhering to the following principles:

- To focus on achieving returns ahead of cash and to increase the real wealth of our clients
- Asset allocation is the primary determinant of long term investment returns
- To understand and manage investment risk, particularly the risk of loss of capital

- To appraise and where appropriate adopt and develop new investment techniques
- To back our judgment and invest our own money alongside our clients
