What is your approach to discretionary fund management?

LGT Wealth Management's investment philosophy is to add value through both top-down asset allocation and bottom-up security selection. Our clients' strategic asset allocation is built with a five year investment horizon. However, as returns, diversification and risk change over time, we aim to manage our clients' expectations over the different market environments through tactical shifts to the strategic asset allocation.

LGT Wealth Management's Investment Committee is ultimately responsible for the firm's investment policy decisions. The Investment Committee sits at the heart of our investment process. This body is comprised of internal portfolio managers, strategists and risk professionals. It sets out the investment strategy of the firm and disseminates the investment recommendations to all of our portfolio managers.

The Investment Committee meets bi-weekly (and more often, as required) and is responsible for:

Asset allocation (strategic and tactical)

Asset classes including:

- Equities
- Bonds and cash
- Alternatives (sub divided into hedge funds, private equity, commodities and property).

Model portfolios

Monitoring model portfolio performance

Reviewing market risk

In order to capture market dynamics, LGT Wealth Management's has set up an external Investment Advisory Board comprised of economists, wealth managers and industry professionals to provide independent macro economic and market views. The Investment Advisory Board assists LGT Wealth Management' to formulate its tactical investment strategy based on prevailing market conditions.

The Investment Committee will consider input from the external Investment Advisory Board as well as "bottom up" analysis and recommendations from two in house sub-committees (our Equity and Bond committee for direct securities and our Product Approval Committee formed of two committees – authorised collectives committee and unregulated collectives committee).

LGT Wealth Management's set of strategic model portfolios encompasses three risk bands – low, medium and high. Each client's profile will be mapped into one of these three risk categories. These are defined by the asset mix and assigned a volatility and Value at Risk (VaR) band which will be monitored. The strategic allocation determines the weighting in models to the three main asset classes of equities, bonds/cash and alternatives. The Investment Committee refines the strategic allocation within equities across regions, bonds to sovereign and corporate and alternatives into private equity, commodities, hedge funds and property. The strategic asset allocations are defined over an investment time horizon of five years. The strategic allocation is expected to be the primary generator of a portfolio's return. Shorter term asset allocation changes will be derived from tactical asset allocation.

Tactical allocation is the short term (6-12 months) adjustment to the long term strategic allocation. The tactical tilts are based on changes in the economic or market environment or other specific information which might impact short term portfolio performance. The Investment Committee decides upon tactical changes to asset weightings, taking into account advice from the Investment Advisory Board and the appropriate sub-committees. Tactical opportunities attempt to enhance return or reduce risk, as appropriate. This is expressed as an overweight/underweight in the asset class. The added value of the tactical tilt for the model portfolios is monitored weekly and reported to the Investment Committee.
